HONOR PINS AWARDED

STUDENTS RECEIVE RECOGNITION FOR EXCELLENCE IN SCHOLARSHIP

On Wednesday morning, at the Glendale Union High School, there was held the semi-annual honor pin assembly at which members of the present Senior, Junior and Sophomore classes entering in September were awarded honor pins for high scholarship during the past year. Later similar awards are made to the classes entering and graduating in February. These pins are given to those whose average grade of scholarship in all studies during the year was above 92 per cent, which, as it is easy to see, is setting the requirements very high. It is a noteworthy fact that more than 21 per cent of the two higher classes won the pins. Also this is the first time in the five years this custom has been in effect in the High School that the Junior class ranked as high as the Seniors, and there was consequent rejoicing among them.

The parents of the students honored are invited guests on these occasions and on Wednesday Miss Flood, who was the speaker of the morning and who is the originator of the idea, spoke to a large and appreciative audience. The names of the winners of these honor badges follow:

The plan of giving these honor pins has proved such an incentive to scholarship and so happy a means of rewarding it, that it has met not only with marked success in our own school, but has been adopted by a number of high schools in and about Los Angeles which have had the opportunity to observe the system. Doubtless in time the custom will spread into even wider circles. Last year the Polytechnic High School of Los Angeles sent out for one of the clever little pins used in the Glendale High School and frankly adapted the design for their own use, with thanks for the idea as well as the model. The South Pasadena High School expects soon to begin making these awards and other high schools have recently followed the plan. Miss Flood is justly proud of her "hobby" as she calls it, and there are a number of boys and girls at the High School today who are also very proud indeed of their pretty pins so diligently earned.

IVANHOE BRIDGE

ONLY $1000 OF COST TO BE PAID BY GLENDALE, TROPICO AND BURBANK

Last Friday when the citizens of this section of the San Fernando valley went before the city council of Los Angeles to ask them to order the bridge built across the Los Angeles river at Ivanhoe an agreement was entered into whereby the Tropico, Burbank and Glendale communities would assure $2500 of the expense.

The first of this week Mattison B. Jones representing Glendale, went before the board of supervisors and persuaded them to appropriate $1500 of the $2500 pledged by the three cities. Now there remains only $1000 to be raised by these cities. Under present arangements the City of Los Angeles appropriates $12,500
Los Angeles county 6,500
Glendale, Tropico, and Burbank 1,000

Total $20,000

FAREWELL LUNCHEON

Mrs. Myra C. K. Shuey of Los Angeles, formerly of Tropico, was hostess at an elaborate five course luncheon on Tuesday at the Cafe Beautiful at the Broadway department store in Los Angeles, by way of a farewell before her departure for the north where she will spend the next five months or more visiting relatives and friends. The guests were: Mrs. Lina G. Rhea of Long Beach, Mrs. Olivia, who is Mrs. Shuey's sister, Dr. Leonore Bates and Mrs. D. H. Imler of Tropico. The table was beautifully decorated with red carnations and the orchestra music seemed especially lovely on this occasion. The luncheon was followed by a short social hour after which a matinee party followed and later Mrs. Shuey was accompanied to her boat at San Pedro by some of her guests.

CONSERVATION COMMITTEE

The Red Cross committee in charge of collecting old papers, magazines and junk, which might very truly be called a conservation committee, is greatly in need of the Saturday volunteer services of the older boys and girls who can help to stack and tie the papers and other articles brought in to the headquarters at 312 South Brand Blvd. This is a very valuable service and the boys and girls who volunteer to give their time and aid in this cause may feel that they are indeed performing a public duty of real benefit to their country. When it is realized that $49.90 was realized from the newspapers and magazines alone, collected and sent in by this committee two weeks ago, and that the addition of boxes, junk, etc., now to be added will increase this amount it may be seen how materially the efforts of these boys and girls is repaid in the contributions which Glendale is thus enabled to make toward the national need.

RED CROSS TRIUMPHANT

As publicity committee for the Glendale Red Cross, from its inception as an auxiliary to Los Angeles, till it had become the Glendale chapter, with permanent headquarters on Brand boulevard, I would like to say a word. I am proud to have taken even a small part in developing a local chapter of the National American Red Cross, so respected, beloved and trusted by Glendalians that on the first glad day of its current drive to raise needed funds for the Red Cross world-war work, more than five thousand dollars was subscribed.

That is an acid test of Glendale's patriotism; and the latest proof, among many, that whatever Glendalians approve and want, they will pay for promptly and generously. It also demonstrates how we grievously realize that the battle-freed spirits of our own dear soldier boys are beginning to join the millions that hover over "no man's land."

WALT LE NOIR CHURCH.

BONUS OF 20 PER CENT

EVERY WORKER IN ADVENTIST CONFERENCE TO RECEIVE SALARY INCREASE

Every clergyman of the Seventh-day Adventist denomination throughout North America, together with every college and academy professor, every sanitarium worker, every publishing house employee, and every other evangelical worker in local, union and division conference will receive a weekly bonus of twenty per cent of their weekly salaries as long as the high cost of living prevails.

This action has been taken by the world leaders of the church who are holding their convention in the Unitarian church, in Minneapolis, Minnesota, and will be retro-active from July 1. This will mean an increase in the pay roll of the organization of many thousand dollars a week.

Rev. E. E. Andross, president of the Pacific Union Conference, which includes the states of California, Nevada, Utah, Arizona, and Western Colorado in its territory, was the one who seconded the resolution when it was presented to the delegates, and he made a strong speech favoring it.

The North American Division Conference, which embraces all America in its territory, will be abolished at the next quadrennial session of the General World Conference to be held in San Francisco, if the recommendation made by the delegates here to that effect is passed. This will mean that the General World Conference will have unrestricted authority in this country, as its base of supplies, in raising funds for missions and in gathering out recruits for missionary endeavor in foreign countries. This action will also preserve the unity of the church in this country, and will give the world conference the authority to raise funds without being restricted to a subordinate organization. Adventists all over America will be interested in this plan.

The coming quadrennial session in San Francisco will be held in the Civic Auditorium which has a seating capacity of 10,000 persons, from March 29 to April 21, 1918, and will bring to it delegates from all parts of the world. Hundreds and hundreds of Adventists in California are already planning to attend.

A plan has been introduced by Rev. I. H. Evans, president of the North American Division Conference to establish what would be known as the Twenty-five-cent-a-week fund throughout the denomination in North America as a systematic method with which to raise foreign mission funds. The consensus of opinion was that such a fund should be established, and it was explained that it would bring into the Foreign Mission treasury upwards of a million, two hundred and fifty thousand dollars a year. The proposition after being enthusiastically discussed was referred to the committee on plans.

A vote was taken to publish advent literature in the Syrian, Yiddish, Bohemian, Italian and Roumanian languages which will be distributed among the people of this country who speak those languages. Evangelistic campaigns will be held in New York, Chicago and other cities where these nationalities have centers.

The convention will continue until November 10.

THE REVIVAL MEETINGS

Rev. C. A. Cole is preaching a most helpful series of sermons this week at the Christian church. They are full of teaching along vital lines pertaining to the acceptance of Jesus Christ. The subject tonight will be, "How to become a Christian." No doubt there are many who are bothered as to this proposition and will be on hand tonight. Two more persons were added to the church last night and a growing interest is manifested. The meetings will continue through the week and Sunday promises to be the greatest day of the year. The Sunday School will attend Friday night.

MRS. BETZ GIVES TEA

On Wednesday Mrs. H. E. Betz and her mother, Mrs. Howe, gave a Red Cross tea at the home of Mrs. Betz, 124 North Kenwood street, which was really in the nature of a bee at which the ladies prepared material for the school children to shred for ambulance pillows. Besides spending a very busy afternoon with a gratifying amount of work accomplished, the guests greatly enjoyed themselves socially. Mrs. Betz served very nice refreshments. The guests were: Mesdames B. M. Brown, Pray, Schwab, Streight, Hollister and Maxwell.

HAPPENINGS IN STATE

YOUNG WOMEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION PLANS $350,000 WAR WORK CAMPAIGN

SAN FRANCISCO, November 8.—Young Women's Christian Association war workers from Sacramento, Fresno, San Jose, Oakland and San Francisco met at the Palace Hotel here today to discuss plans for the $350,000 campaign which starts December 3.

BERKELEY, November 8.—Today is Berkeley's first ice creamless day. The girls of the University of California did it. They decided ice cream is unpatriotic stuff and so on each Thursday it will be no more tuiti fruiti sundaes or anything else with ice cream suggestions to it, for them. Today the rule went into effect and in keeping therewith the campus store at the university sold no ice cream today.

OAKLAND, November 8.—Oakland rats are at the end of their rope. Like the well known calf they went too far. It was not pleasing but could be tolerated when they merely hid in culverts, frightened fair young things and cut other ratty capers. But when they destroyed $3000 worth of property in one block in a few months' time, their death sentence was passed. John Eustice, chief sanitary and plumbing expert, has announced a campaign of rat extermination.

The decision of the United States Supreme Court rendered Monday ruling that "Jim Crowe" ordinances are invalid, was not confined in its affects to the southern states. An initiative petition calling for an ordinance in Oakland segregating the residence district for the white and colored population, was filed with the Oakland council a week ago. It was filed after the city attorney had advised the council that such an ordinance would be unconstitutional and the council had, accordingly refused to pass it. It is believed the supreme court decision will end the agitation.

SANTA ANA, November 8.—The sugar beet crop in the region for which Santa Ana is the center is approximately 75,000 tons short this season according to officials of sugar factories. The growers, however, have suffered but little through the short crop as prices have ruled high.

CAMP LEWIS, Tacoma, Wash., November 8.—Seventy-five dollars for the Colusa county contingent at Camp Lewis has arrived here, the money to be devoted to buying bats and balls for the team which is to represent Colusa in the camp games. It was raised by public subscription.

RED CROSS BAZAAR

Not much has been said about the Red Cross Bazaar of late but preparations are going on for this important event. Mrs. G. A. Whitaker, 315 N. Maryland who is in charge of this branch of the chapter's activities has already received a number of articles. Ladies who have promised to donate things for the bazaar may leave them with Mrs. Whitaker or at Red Cross headquarters. It is planned to hold the bazaar the first week in December the exact date to be announced later. Meanwhile get busy and make something pretty or useful or both and send it in.

GLENDALE, CALIFORNIA, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1917

SOLDIERS PREFER FAMILIAR SONGS

A Detroit musician who has sung in the soldiers' training camps of Michigan and Illinois, remarked upon the preference of "the boys" for the simple, familiar songs of home and mother. In absence, preparing for an unknown issue in war, the heart turned to thoughts of home and the loved ones there. Hamlin Garland, writing of his early life in the Middle West after the close of the Civil war and in the early seventies, makes mention of the songs that were favorites among the pioneers at that time. There were few musical instruments in the West then, the phonograph was not yet invented, so the people relied upon their voices for music, and "a good singer" was exceedingly popular, especially if he was good natured and willing to oblige—and he usually was; it is only prima donnas at $500 a night who can afford to be ungenerous.

Mr. Garland also commented on the character of the songs which the early settlers enoyed; they were nearly all sad and reminiscent. "Silver Threads Among the Gold" was very popular, nor were these hardy men and women ashamed that the sentiment of the song brought a mist before their eyes. The Civil war was a recent event, its bereavements still fresh, and "The Vacant Chair," "Tenting on the Old Camp Ground," "Just Before the Battle, Mother," fitted the mood of the people. The spirit of the pioneers, despite their hardihood and courage and their hopefulness, has always been affected by the loneliness of environment and the separation of the former ties. Their choice of songs was indicative of their deep feeling for home, an emotion which the boys in khaki seem to share. The charm of the Scottish and Irish ballads, which great singers acknowledge by their choice of such songs as encores, largely centers in their pathos. James Weldon Johnson names the slave songs of the negroes as "one of the things artistic" that have sprung from American life. In them, he continues, "the negro sounded the depths, if he did not scale the heights, of music."

Just as the poetry that touches us most nearly is the simplest in sentiment and expression, so the songs of a nation, those which the common people—the musically uncultured people—love the best are apt to be simple, pathetic and melodic. They appeal to "the common heart of human kind."—Detroit Free Press.

HEAVEN OF THE AUTOMOBILE

A high brow thesis on this and that isn't necessary to convince the most casual that here in Southern California is the heaven of the automobile. But just why this particular corner of the world should be celestially inclined when it comes to motor cars is a matter for some contemplation. There are other parts of America with climate alleged to be as equable as this, with roads touted as good and with scenery claimed A No. 1. Then what is it?

Without much hesitation I should say that nowhere else in the world is there so acute an "automobile atmosphere" as in Southern California. This "go get there" atmosphere breathes automobilitis. It has inoculated every inhabitant of each of the thirteen southern counties of this, the Union's most wonderful state.

That—and the Automobile Club of Southern California. Of course, the Automobile Club is an outgrowth of the fact that there are automobiles. Wherever there exists a group of human beings with an interest so single and so devoted as the owners of motor cars, there is bound to be some attempt to "get together" and amalgamate their interests.

The resuit here has been the Southern California Club, and just as this corner of America has bred the greatest automobile center in the world, so has it given the world its most active automobile organization. The latter was a natural outgrowth of the former.

Motorists coming here from the East and North have learned that they can travel over any road in the Southland without a guide book. Give them a figurative shove in the right direction and they can find their way about with ease byfollowing the road signs erected by those motorists who have joined together in a club for the promoting of this very thing, among others.

The automobile atmosphere created the Automobile Club and the Automobile Club maintains the very atmosphere which was its creator. Concerted effort is necessary in accomplishment, and it is by reason of the fact that the motorists began to "get together in 1900 under the banner of the Automobile Club that roads are sign posted as they are now, and, in fact, that there are so many good roads to sign post! When it comes to sheer variety in scenery all other American claimants are relegated to a land of idle boasts by Southern California. From the very fact that here is valley, sea, mountain and desert comes one reason for the continuing vitality of the automobile situation—the continuing pulse of its activity and the lack of stagnation. There is no stagnation in this part of the state in the matter of touring. When a motorist wearies of one type of scene he can shift his direction and find another. It is merely a matter of which route he takes—a turn to the right at the next corner and he finds the canyons; a turn to the left and he finds the sea; straight ahead and if he goes far enough he'll find the fascinating desert.

To get down to brass tacks, the adventuring motorist will find approximately 2346 miles of paved roadway in Southern California, over which he can jaunt and jaunt to his heart's content. And in addition to this paved highway there are thousands of miles of highly improved dirt road, which carries the traveler into the mountains or along the shore. Every mile of good road in this part of the state has been sign posted by the Automobile Club. The casualist will get some idea of the immensity of the task when it is realized that more than 30,000 signs were used.

Taking care of the welfare of all the motorists who are dashing around this part of the state, the Automobile Club, in the first six months of this year distributed 316,983 maps—the majority of these to members. Its touring bureau answered more than 65,000 requests for road information in the same period of six months' time. Some job! Club signs now extend to Kansas City, Salt Lake City and Phoenix. The amount of money that is being saved to members is a matter for personal investigation, but rest assured that it is enormous, both collectively and individually.

WHYS AND WHEREFORES

American Red Cross, Pacific Division
October 30, 1917.

Mrs. Nanno Woods,
Los Angeles, Calif.

Dear Mrs. Woods:—I am pleased to answer the following questions:

(1) The knitting allotment recently made to all chapters in the Pacific Division is intended for France and not for the soldiers in our own camps. Whenever the matter is brought to our attention we are begging them to conform to the organization plan. If individuals, mothers or friends, want to supply their relatives in camps located in this country, that is their own business.

(2) These knitted articles, also hospital dressings and garments, are greatly needed in France. Chapters are being urged to give special attention to these matters immediately.

(3) The need is so great that all Red Cross manufactured articles are being shipped to Europe. The Christmas packages for the soldiers are the only ones going to our soldiers in U. S. A. camps, and provision is also being made for each soldier in France to receive a Christmas package from the Red Cross, but these Christmas packages have nothting to do with knitted garments, hospital garments or surgical dressings.

(4) Red Cross chapters have no right to divert from the soldiers in France the garments that are so greatly needed.

(5) The Los Angeles chapter takes upon itself to furnish the camp at Arcadia, because they were able to convince the manager that they were in great need and suffering from the lack of sweaters. In one or two instances we have granted special authority where we were convinced that the need was great. This procedure is unusual, however.

(6) The Red Cross, officially, has not sent sweaters to the boys at Camp Kearney.

(7) I do not understand why a commanding officer of the 40th Division received a Red Cross sweater.

We believe as you do abut these matters, and are doing everything we possibly can to educate the public to our point of view. We have gotten beyond the day of individual effort. It is now organization—the highest perfection of organization, and the Red Cross is doing everything within its power to see that the needs of the soldiers are met, and that all are furnished with absolute necessities.

In each of our camps located in this country we have a camp director—in each instance a prominent business man, who serves without remuneration, whose business it is to study the needs of the men and advise with the medical officers and the line officers, thereby ascertaining all the facts as to those in great need, and then requisition this office for those supplies. This office in turn calls upon the chapter to produce the needed articles.

We are having some difficulty in persuading many of our chapters to fall in with the organization plans, "the greatest good to the greatest number." It seems that many of them can only see their own point of view, and they seem to think that it is only necessary to furnish supplies to the boys going from their own home towns.

I trust this letter will give you the information you desire, and I shall be glad at any time to do everything possible to assist you in clearing up any doubtful points.

Yours very truly,
JOHN L. CLYMER,
Director Bureau of Development,
Pacific Division.

USE VACANT LOTS

Last spring it occurred to a well meaning citizen that if some of the vacant ground were planted to garden products, it would be a good way of doing "our bit." He communicated his idea to a few more, with the result that about eight or ten met, decided to canvas the city to see what vacant lots were to be had gratis, etc. A canvass revealed that most of the vacant lots had been spoken for, but that the school athletic field was available.

The expense was calculated, and that was guaranteed by five or six who were to have the money advanced for seed, etc., back, if the thing worked out, otherwise they were to lose it.

It being late, potatoes seemed to be the only feasible crop. Volunteers to help do the actual work of cultivation were called for. Some responded.

Well, the committee went ahead. The potatoes were planted, even though a trifle late. They grew, although the season was far from the best. Beginning late, the committee wished them to mature if possible, so the digging was postponed. Then the weather man sent a shower every time things were in readiness for the harvest.

Finally the digging began, and a squad of school boys made quick work of picking them up. They were sold and delivered last week at a fair market price. After the seed and hired labor were paid for, there remained $240, which the committee have voted to donate to the Red Cross.

If the war continues, why not all get together and raise a wide variety of vegetables, the men to do the raising and the women to do the canning. What do you say? Will you do your share?—Tri-County Press, Polo, Ill.

The above is copied from a paper that for twelve years was published by the present editor of the Evening News, and it is indeed a satisfaction to him to learn that the people of his former place of residence are giving substantial support to the American Red Cross.

WONDERS OF GRAFINITE

Grafinite, which is a specially prepared form of graphite, has many unique and wonderful qualities. It is absolutely light proof. As we learned in school, anything that appears black is impervious to light—there is nothing blacker than grafinite. It is almost impossible to destroy graphite or make it change its form. It is made up of particles so small that, under sufficient pressure, it can be forced through glass. It is one of the best known anti-friction materials and in various forms is commonly used in the manufacture of lubricants. Its particles have relatively low cohesion and still lower adhesion; that is, they do not readinly adhere to each other nor do they stick to other substances or surfaces with which they come in contact.

The many valuable properties of grafinite suggested its use as a coating for automobile inner tubes. Tubes coated with grafinite are absolutely protected from light which is one of the chief things that deteriorate rubber. Sticking and friction is also eliminated by the use of grafinite coating. If there is any friction between an inner tube and the casing containing it or if the tube sticks to the casing, it is bound to be short-lived. Friction is ordinarily reduced by the use of soap-stone. It is absolutely prevented by a coating of grafinite and the use of powders and soap-stone is therefore rendered entirely unnecessary.

The Savage Tire company is the only company to put out a tube with grafinite vulcanized into its surface. The process employed was perfected only by considerable experimental work. It is a unique manufacturing feature and the Savage Tire company were granted basic patents on it.

According to Platt's Tire Shop, the local distributor, the splendid satisfaction that the Savage Grafinite tube is giving is undoubtedly due to a large extent to its coating but the tube is made of the best quality of rubber and aside from the advantage of grafinite, it possesses all the good qualities of other tubes. The Savage tube is becoming more popular every day with motorists in this vicinity.

Mrs. Charles H. Andrews, of 329 North Maryland, is entertaining her father, Mr. Alfred Nickells who arrived on Tuesday evening by boat from San Francisco. Mr. Nichells is already greatly enjoying Southern California and hopes to spend a month or more with his daughter's family. Mr. Andrew is a member of the firm of the Jones Book Store in Los Angeles.

Mr. Harold Salisbury who recently left Glendale for American Lake writes that he now belongs to company B, 316th Field Battalion Signal corps and is hard at work in signal drill. His company has just received their new uniforms. He reports that he enjoys the work, in spite of the weather, which is that of the Northwest, in marked contrast to that of Southern California.

Mrs. Sallie C. Braden of 1304 Arden avenue, entertained the ladies of the "Sunshine club of the Royal Court of the Amaranth of Los Angeles at an all day meeting on Tuesday. A delicious luncheon was served and the work of the day was charity sewing. Mrs. Braden's invited guests from Glendale were: Mrs. George Peterson, Miss Stella Eckels and Mrs. Edwin Parke. All enjoyed a very pleasant day socially as well as a busy one.

The friends of Miss Lila Livingston, formerly of 1421 Pioneer Drive, will be shocked to hear of her death at Tujunga after a short illness. Miss Livingston and her mother, Mrs. Mary C. Mandery left Glendale last April. Besides her mother, she leaves to mourn her loss a brother, C. William Livingston. Funeral service were held on Monday from Cornell's chapel in Los Angeles. Miss Livingston was for several years librarian in the city and was known and loved by many people in this locality.

Mr. F. W. Anderson, who returned to Glendale on Tuesday after an absence of more than a year and a half in Lowell, Arizona, has many interesting experiences to relate. He was fireman at the Denn mine, and has been in the thick of the industrial disturbances in the copper mining district during the past summer. He says that conditions are only now returning to normal. Mr. Anderson was a member of the Citizens' Protective League and served as a deputy under Sheriff Harry Wheeler and naturally figured in some very exciting episodes. He is here now on a thirty day lay-off.

Miss Jessie Gaddis who is employed in Los Angeles where she has made her home for the past few years has taken the house at 466 West Fifth street for her family who expect to come out from Chicago in the near future to live permanently in Glendale. They have shipped their household goods and Miss Gaddis, who will live with them, expects to have everything in readiness for their arrival. The family consists of Mrs. Gaddis, Miss Dean Gaddis, and Mr. Robert Gaddis, a son. The move is being made largely for the mother's health and Glendale was chosen as the most suitable place in Southern California.

Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Parker from Omaha, Nebraska, moved on Wednesday into the home they have taken furnished for the winter, at 1418 Ivy street.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert James from New York have rented the house at 1411 West Fifth street furnished and expect to make Glendale their home for the winter.

Mrs. John Elliot of Alhambra, was the guest on Tuesday and Wednesday of Dr. and Mrs. Frank Arnold at their home, 532 Orange Grove avenue. Mrs. Elliot is a cousin of Dr. Arnold.

Mrs. Frank R. Liddell of 234 North Kenwood street, was entertained at dinner on Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Clark on Ingraham street in Los Angeles and later the party attended a musical at the Ebell club on South Figueroa street.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Guthrie of 523 West Ninth street, entertained at dinner on Wednesday evening Mrs. Guthrie's sisters, Misses Roberta and Lynn Coles of Los Angeles. The young ladies motored out with Mr. Guthrie from the city in the afternoon and returned with him the next morning.

The J. O. C. class of the First Methodist church held their regular monthly business meeting Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. C. R. Lusby. After the business meeting a very enjoyable social hour was spent and dainty refreshments were served by the hostess. The young ladies spent part of the evening planning for the baby booth and the candy booth they will have at the Ladies' Aid bazaar Friday of this week.

On Wednesday morning there was a meeting at Los Angeles headquarters of the Central Committee of the Councils of National and state defense, at which reports of county chairmen and chairmen of the departments were given. Miss Eulalia Richardson attended as chairman of the Glendale unit of the Council of Defense. One of the points emphasized at the meeting by Mrs. Stella B. Irvine who presided, was that the committee with its branches hitherto known as the Food Conservation committees will hereafter have the title of Food Administration committees.

On Tuesday evening, the third night of the big drive which is being conducted during the "Win My Chum" week by the Epworth League of the Valley, the program was of unusual interest. The University of Southern California student volunteers had charge of the services and those who heard these wideawake, active young women, feel that they have received a great treat. Another feature was a talk on "Your Bit" by Horace Whiteman of Alhambra. Special music was furnished. Tonight Rev. G. Bromley Oxman of Los Angeles will speak on "Digging In." Music will be furnished. There will be a whistling solo by Miss Eva Green and a vocal solo by Mr. George Lyon. Young people, are you interested in the spiritual welfare of your chum? If so, do your bit and respond with your attendance at the First Methodist church at Third and Kenwood at seven thirty.

Everett street, Friday afternoon at 2:45 o'clock. Everyone who cares to hear these concerts and at the same time make a small donation of 10 cents to the Red Cross will be cordially welcomed.

Preceding each number Mr. Kelly will give a brief resume of the opera from which the selection is taken, or some item regarding the composition, the circumstances under which it was composed or something interesting about the composer or singer. In this way it is planned to make the entertainment instructive as well as entertaining.

The last concert was well attended and netted a neat sum for the cause.

Quick at their home, 325 Cedar street, left on Friday with her infant daughter Olive Ismah, for Stockton, where she will be the guest of Miss Esther Heilman an old schoolmate and formerly of Glendale. From there Mrs. Dow will go north to Plymouth, California, where she will join her husband in their new home which has just been completed. Mr. Dow is the representative in that territory of a San Francisco firm manufacturing farm tractors.

MASSACHUSETTS INSTITUTE

Quite in exception to the rule of American colleges this year the Massachusetts Institute of Technology has lost but ten per cent of its normal registration, and this number has been more than made up by the enlisted men in the two government schools which are cared for by the Institute, the School of Military Aeronautics and the Naval Aviation Detachment. These together number about five hundred so that the actual number of students at Technology is nearly 22000, a couple of hundred more than in any previous year. The loss in registration, some two hundred, is accounted for by the placing of almost precisely that number of students in military service or in industrial work related to the war. The ability of the Institute to give still further service in future will be strengthened by the newly adopted military option, available for the sophomores this year, which will prepare the students for the Reserve Officers Corps without the necessity of an examination.

The homes of students at the Institute follow the same very wide distribution of former years, there being some losses among the European countries engaged in the war and some gains in Latin-American countries and an important one in the Japanese of whom theer are 12 mostly mature men now engaged in special work.

Of the 1500 students from this country nearly two-thirds are Massachusetts and 130 others from the other New England States. New York state furnished 100 and the other Middle States some 85 more, with 34 from the South Atlantic states and 28 from the Gulf states, of which Texas sends no less than 15. The states east of the Mississippi are represented by 103, those west of the Mississippi by 42 while the West Coast sends 25, 17 of these coming from California.

Glendale is represented at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology by De Ross Salisbury, who is in the senior class.

AMERICAN FOOD SENT TO THE KAISER'S COUNTRY

WASHINGTON, November 8.—Enormous quantities of American food are on the way today to the Kaiser's country.

The American government knows about it. Is, in fact, glad of it. Did, in fact, permit it to be sent and went to considerable trouble to arrange a routing so it would be sure to get there.

The shipment now en route, which will be followed by others to the value of at least $500,000, is 5,000 sacks of perfectly good American flour. Other foodstuffs and clothing will be sent on to German territory just as fast as the American government can get it there.

The food and clothing, however, is not going to German subjects, but to Servian prisoners of war in Austrian prison camps. Concerning the shipments, the American Red Cross said today:

"As part of the Red Cross program for aid to Serbia, which has been undertaken in cooperation with the Serbian Government, the Red Cross has just shipped 5,000 bags of flour to Serbians in Austrian prison camps.

"This is the first shipment of a series of food purchases which the Red Cross, in cooperation with the Serbian government, is making in this country for relief of prisoners. The Serbian Minister has deposited $500,000 to the credit of the Red Cross for the purchase of these foodstuffs.

"The Allies must provide living necessities for their soldiers who are captured, because the Central Powers are not providing prisoners of war with sufficient food to keep them in good health. By arrangement with Germany and Austria, prisoners are permitted to receive extra rations and clothing from their home governments. Lack of supplies in Europe has forced Serbia to buy in the United States.

"The shipments go to the Serbian Consul at Marseilles, and thence through the Serbian Section of the Bureau de Secours at Berne, Switzerland, to prison camps in Austria.

"The American Red Cross now has a special commission in Serbia, headed by Cordenio Arnold Severance, of St. Paul, Minn. The ravages of war there are said to have been even worse than in Belgium and Roumania, and many Serbian refugees have been entirely dependent upon America for relief. Next to Belgium and France, Serbia has been the chief center of American relief work abroad."

A FAMOUS VICTORY

The last stronghold of opposition in this country to the political equality of the sexes was broken down yesterday by the vote in the state of New York by which woman suffrage in the Empire state is secured. Many states are still in the negative column but the national constitutional amendment is on the way, and as the question comes up to the various states, one by one, the friends of equal suffrage in the nation will be able to concentrate their efforts upon the various legislatures, and there is not a reasonable doubt that the requisite majority of the states will be obtained. The suffragists believe that within two years every woman in the country will have the right to vote.

It has been believed generally that New York would be the hardest state to win over to suffrage. The first big parade of women in New York city some three or four years ago was greeted with derision, but with each succeeding year the temper of the people has become more friendly, until now the great city has given a heavy majority for the cause. So it will be everywhere. The appeal of equal suffrage to the average man's sense of justice is strong, and the reform gains in popularity wherever it is agitated.—Monrovia News.

The longer bread stays high, the more housekeepers will learn to bake their own, which is one of the sweet uses of this particular adversity.

GERMANY HAS WORLD'S MONOPOLY ON POTASH

WITH THE FRENCH ARMIES, Oct. 28 (By Mail)—As long as Germany holds Alsace and Lorraine, she possesses a world's monopoly on potash, that indispensable element for the agricultural development of every civilized country on earth.

Whatever Germany may say, her real reasons for clinging to Alsace and Lorraine are neither political, ethnical nor historical. Back of her iron determination to hold the two French provinces lies precisely the same motives that prompted the Crown Prince to sacrifice 700,000 human lives at Verdun in an effort to establish a strangle hold on the great French iron and steel basin of Briey.

The moment Alsace and Lorraine pass into French hands, Germany's monopoly on the postash deposits of the world will be broken for all time to come—a monopoly which she has wielded to date in the most arbitrary manner and which she has utilized to no small extent in furthering her ambitions for world domination.

The supreme importance of Germany's monopoly on potash, was first called to the attention of the United States some two years before the war when a violent diplomatic dispute arose between the United States and Germany over the latter's control of the potash importations into America.

Since the opening of the present war and the cutting off of the United States and all other countries from access to the German potash, the question has become one of world importance.

The fact that Alsace and Lorraine contain potash deposits equal in every respect to those of Germany is a secret which the latter has carefully guarded. The fact that she controlled the output of these latter and fixed an arbitrary price which she dictated to the entire world, and to the detriment of the world's agriculture, is a German state secret even more carefully guarded. The full details are here made known for the first time.

The Alsatian potash deposits were only discovered in 1904. They occupy about 200 square kilometers between Mulhouse, Reimingen, Cernay, Soultz, Raedersheim, Beguisheim and Sausheim at a depth of from 1,500 to 3,000 feet below the surface of the earth.

As the deposits from the very first gave indication of rivaling the famous German potash beds of Saxony, Hanover and the basin along the right bank of the Rhine, the development of the Alsatian beds was only allowed to proceed slowly and cautiously.

From the time of their discovery in 1904 up to 1908 only about 120 soundings were made. Up till 1913 a total of 160 soundings had been made. These however, established definitely that the Alsatian deposits equal if not exceed both in size and purity those of Germany. At the current price of potash in 1909, these deposits represent a total value of over $12,000,000,000.

Germany saw to it that the development of these new beds was restrained in such a manner as not to affect the price of the potash drawn from her own deposits. A total of 106 concessions were made for the exploitation of the Alsatian beds. Twenty-eight of these are in the hands of a Mulhouse company backed by French and Alsatian capital. The other 78 concessions are now in the hands of a German concern, although a small portion of the capital stock of this is also owned by French and Alsatian capitalists.

The exploitation of these concessions and the output of potash however was at all times kept at a minimum. As a consequence, while the output from the old German beds in 1913 was 1,300,000 tons that of the Alsatian beds was only 22,000 tons. Yet competent engineers have established that the Alsatian beds could easily equal in output the German ones.

In order to leave no possibility for the development of the Alsatian beds to affect the price of potash by a sudden and immense increase in the world supply, Germany forced all of the people owning potash concessions to enter into a syndicate. A central commission then received all of the demands and orders for potash, distributed them amongst the various producers, and fixed a common price thus prevently all competition and thus exercising a strangle hold on the agricultural development of the entire world.

This monopoly as a matter of fact has affected in the most serious degree a large number of other world industries besides that of agriculture. A total of 87 to 88 per cent of the world's potash goes into the making of fertilizers. The remainder is used in the producing of caustic potash, nitrate and chloride of potash, alumn, cyanide, bromide and ioduret of potash. All industries employing these chemicals suffer likewise from the German world monopoly.

It is only by the return of Alsace and Lorraine to France and the distribution thus of the two great potash beds of the world between two competing nations that this world's monopoly can be broken up. Its existence explains Germany's willingness to restore Belgium but not to restore Alsace and Lorraine.

A PSYCHOLOGICAL MOMENT IN THE AIR

Flying low over the German lines, a British aviator was soon in the midst of a whining swarm of German bullets. The Germans in the trenches were firing straight up, hoping to wing the flier or pierce his gasoline tank. The aviator—a cool youngster—looked down, saw a bullet slowly ascend the last few feet of its maximum height. It stopped dead still for the smallest fraction of a second. The aviator reached quickly, grabbed the bullet and put it in his pocket.—Pall Mall Gazette, London.
